

Contributors

Despina Afentouli has served as a special advisor for the Press Office and Public Relations of the Hellenic Ministry of Education. Since 2001, she also has worked as a journalist in broadcast and print media. Her doctoral dissertation, "The Position of the British Press in Greek-Turkish Relations, 1955-1965," was published as a monograph in Greece in 2012. She has a PhD in Sociology (Panteion University: Greece) and an MA in international journalism (Salford University: UK & Johannes Gutenberg University: Germany). She has taught journalism and media related subjects at Greek and British universities.

Yiorgos Anagnostou is Professor in the Modern Greek Program, Department of Classics, at The Ohio State University. His work focuses on the understanding of Greek America (<http://www.mgsa.org/faculty/anagnost.html>), and includes the editing of the online magazine Ergon: Greek/American Arts and Letters (<http://ergon.scienzine.com/>).

Elizabeth Tzimopoulos Conway graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Brown University in 2017 with Bachelor's and Master's degrees in political science. Recently, she joined Deloitte's federal advisory team in Washington, D.C. Elizabeth participated in the ninth annual AHIF Foreign Policy Student trip to Cyprus and Greece sponsored by the American Hellenic Institute Foundation.

Constantine P. Danopoulos is Professor Emeritus of Political Science and President's Scholar at San Jose State University. A former Fulbright Scholar to Greece, he has authored or edited 11 books and over 70 journal articles and book chapters on national security, civil-military relations, bureaucracy, poverty, democratic consolidation, and the quality of democracy. His work has been published Armed Forces and Society, Political Science Quarterly, West European Politics, Mediterranean Quarterly, and Third World Quarterly. Author can be contacted at: Constantine.danopoulos@sjsu.edu or danopoulos2@gmail.com

George Economou is author of fifteen books of poetry and translations. The most recent are Unfinished & Uncollected: Finishing Cavafy's Unfinished Poems and Uncollected Poems and Translations (Shearsman Books, 2015), Complete Plus — The Poems of C. P. Cavafy in English

(Shearsman Books, 2013), Ananios of Kleitor (Shearsman Books, 2009), and Acts of Love, Ancient Greek Poetry from Aphrodite's Garden (Modern Library of Random House, 2006). He is currently working on a book of poetry, translations in a three version mode he calls Rough/Rougher/Roughest Trade.

Sam Hamod has been twice-nominated for the Pulitzer Prize in Literary and in 2011 was nominated for the Noble Prize in Literature by Carlos Fuentes, the famed Mexican novelist. Hamond has published fifteen books of poetry. His "Advice from a Crow" is from Spring Will Come Soon (2011) published by Contemporary Poetry Press.

Adrienne Kalfopoulou's most recent poetry collection is A History of Too Much (2018) and an essay collection Ruin: Essays in Exilic Living. Her essays, reviews, assemblages and poems have appeared in print and on-line journals such as ERGON, Slag, Glass City, Hotel Amerika, and the Harvard Review. Her work has been included in anthologies such as Poetry of the Greek Crisis and Crossroads: Writing the Motherland. "Xeno, Xenii, Xenita" published in this issue was translated into Greek by Katerina Iliopoulou and originally appeared in Passion Maps.

Nicholas G. Karambelas, Esq. is a partner of law firm Sfikas & Karambelas, LLP in Washington DC, Baltimore, Maryland, and New York City. He is legal counsel to and a director of the American Hellenic Institute, also in Washington DC. He has authored numerous articles on politics, business, and law. Three such essays are "European, Union Law Fundamentals," "United Nation's Conventions on International Sale of Goods," and "Greece's Century Long Subjugation."

Theodore C. Kariotis has served as Economic Counselor of the Embassy of Greece (1982-1986) and was a member of the delegation of Greece to the UN Conference on the Law of the Sea. He is emeritus professor of Economics at the U of Maryland University College where, over twenty-five years, he was granted three awards for "excellence in teaching." He has written books and articles on the Exclusive Economic Zone for Greek and English-language readers. He has three degrees in Economics received from Greece, Canada, and the United States. He taught one semester on a trip around the world on the floating university of Virginia trip around the world for the U of Virginia and was one of the first professors in the United States to teach courses online.

Theofilos Koulianos graduated Summa Cum Laude from Hampden-Sydney College with a Bachelor's of Arts degree in Economics and Business. He currently is in graduate school at Duke University's Fuqua School of Business pursuing a Masters of Management Studies and will be studying in Shanghai beginning in January 2018. Theofilos participated in the ninth annual AHIF Foreign Policy College Student Trip to Greece and Cyprus sponsored by the American Hellenic Institute Foundation.

Alexandros K. Kyrou is Professor of History and Director of the Program in East European and Russian Studies at Salem State University in Salem, Massachusetts, where he teaches on Byzantium, the Balkans, and the Ottoman Empire. His diverse publications include works on the Greek American community and the Greek War Relief Association during WWII, war and peace in Byzantium, Orthodoxy and humanitarian interventionism, and US foreign policy in the Balkans. He is a former Senior Research Fellow of the Kokkalis Program at Harvard University, a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow in the Program in Hellenic Studies at Princeton University, and a former Associate Editor of the Journal of Modern Hellenism.

Willard Manus is a Los Angeles-based novelist, playwright, and journalist who lived for many years on the island of Rhodes. At one time, he served as the Mediterranean correspondent for The Financial Post (Canada). His memoir of Greek island life, This way to Paradise, Dancing on the Tables, was published by Lycabettus Press (Athens) and is now in its fourth edition. Manus can be reached at mavmanus@aol.com.

Stavros Piperis, a senior at Boston College, is studying Political Science and is a member of the department's Honors Program. He participated in the ninth annual AHIF Foreign Policy Student Trip to Greece and Cyprus in 1997 sponsored by the American Hellenic Institute Foundation.

Nanako Murata Sawayanagi published History of Modern Greece from its Independence to the Present Day in 2012. This was the first book about modern Greek history written in Japanese and was very well received. She is professor at Toyo University, Tokyo, Japan, where she teaches modern European history. Her PhD was obtained at New York University. Her major academic focus is modern Greece and the eastern Mediterranean world. A past recipient of an Onassis Foundation scholarship, she has done research at the American School of Classic Studies in Athens. She also has lived in Thessaloniki. An earlier version of her paper was published in Mediterranean World, vol. 23 (Tokyo, 2017), pp.135-146.